

We're hiring

“At Lungfish we're more than just architects. We're a talented, forward-thinking team that's constantly aiming higher and achieving more for each client.”

A fresh, innovative and dynamic practice, Lungfish Architects is looking to expand its talented, client-focused team.

Experts in public buildings and specialists in education, we create purposeful, elegant, sustainable buildings that involve and inspire the people who use them.

If you're passionate about design, always aiming higher for your clients and don't mind rolling your sleeves up then we'd love to have you as part of the Lungfish team.

We're looking for a talented and hands-on Project Architect or Architectural Technologist with exceptional BIM experience and job running. Key competencies include:

- Experience of leading multidisciplinary design teams using BIM on multiple projects with a track record of successful architectural and commercial outcomes
- Evidence of a wide range of client relationships, stakeholders and national contractors in a number of sectors
- Experience of successfully delivered projects and initiatives, through national press, architectural awards and nationwide coverage
- At least 10 years of experience

But most of all, we're looking for the right person with the right attitude to join our busy, enthusiastic and committed practice.

So if you're not afraid of a challenge, relish the thought of working side-by-side with your client for the entirety of the design-led cycle and beyond, we want to hear from you.

Closing date: 23 October 2016.
